The Week in Society.

Last week was full of "social surprises." At the beginning of the week it was thought that there would be absolutely "nothing doing," in a social way, as few events had been arranged ahead of time, but nearly every day some charming event would occur, given informally, and altogether more enjoyable, for the most pleasant things of life are the pleasures which steal upon us unawares.

The coming week holds little promise so far for parties, and the like, but it may redeem itself and as last week, come to a close most pleasantly. Today if the weather is fine, the Sunday pleasure seekers will all be out to find a cool place to spend the few hours of leisure time allotted them. One scarcely realizes that there are so many people in Pensacola, as upon a Sunday afternoon the cars along the bay shore are crowded and the big excursion boats going across to the island are always filled with people out for an afternoon of pleasure and comfort.

Nomads Literary Society.
The Nomads are arranging a program for the coming season's study and will complete their arrangements Monday afternoon at a meeting to be held with Mrs. John B. Jones, North Barcelona street. The subject of study chosen is the "Semitic Races." As soon as completed the program will be placed in the hands of the printer.

Monday Afternoon Euchre.
The M. A. E. Club will meet this afternoon at half past three o'clock with Mrs. W. B. Lindstrom, West Government street.

Tuesday Card Club Meetings.
The East Hill Euchre Club will meet at half past three o'clock this afternoon with Mrs. George Hoffman, East Gadsden street.

The Married Ladies' Euchre Club will meet at half past three o'clock with Mrs. H. Blumer, East Government street.

Wednesday Card Clubs.
The Progress Euchre Club will meet tonight at eight o'clock at the Progress Club.

Thursday Bridge Club.
The Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club meets with Mrs. John C. Avery at half past three o'clock.

Friday Bay Parties.
Miss Jeanette Martin will entertain a number of friends at a launch party, the destination being the life saving station, this evening at half past seven o'clock.

Saturday.
"Open house" Pensacola Country Club. Golf game and afternoon tea.

BALKUM-McNAIR WEDDING WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

The marriage of Mr. Monroe Balkum and Miss Mae McNair occurred last Wednesday night at the home of the bride, 508 North H street.

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with white carnations, vines and ferns.

An improvised altar was outlined with potted plants on one side of the parlor, and the rooms were gracefully hung with southern smilax, while cut flowers and potted plants made the interior of the home a perfect bower of fragrant green. The dining room was beautifully decorated in white and green, a lovely bride's cake forming the centerpiece.

At the appointed time Mendelssohn's wedding march was played and the bridal party entered the room.

The maid of honor, Miss Lelia Godwin, gowned in white Paris muslin, preceded the bride. Her flowers were white carnations tied with tulle.

Then came the pretty bride who wore a dainty gown of white grand-mother swiss, elaborately trimmed in val lace. A tulle veil fell from her dark hair in graceful folds about her. A large bunch of white bride's roses completed her costume.

At the altar the groom and his best man, Mr. Ernest McNair, joined the bride, Rev. J. W. Senterfitt, of the West Hill Baptist church performing the ceremony.

The bride is one of Pensacola's popular and accomplished young ladies, who has many friends here and elsewhere. The groom is also known and popular in Pensacola. The young people were the recipients of many elegant presents and numerous good wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Balkum are at home to their friends at 409 North F street.

JUNIOR GARDENERS WILL NOT MEET.

The Junior Gardeners' Society will not meet until the return of Miss Amelia Schulman, who will be absent from the city for about two weeks.

Miss Schulman is director of the Junior Gardeners and "general helper," and her advice and encouragement in the work is much appreciated by the young people, who are doing such good work in keeping the school grounds in order.

EAST HILL EUCHRE CLUB ENTERTAINED.

Mrs. Will H. Ferguson was hostess of the East Hill Euchre Club at a meeting recently held at her home. There were four tables of euchre and a pleasant afternoon was spent playing the fascinating game.

Mrs. Ed Sharpe won the first prize, Mrs. H. J. Bennett the second, and Mrs. George Hoffman the consolation and lone hand prizes.

Delicious ices and punch were served. The club will meet next week with Mrs. Geo. Hoffman, on East Gadsden street.

MASTER ANDREW FISHER ENTERTAINED FRIENDS.

Master Andrew Fisher celebrated his third birthday anniversary with a number of little friends last week at the home of his parents. The table was daintily decorated for the occasion.

DELIGHTFUL MUSICAL GIVEN THURSDAY.

On the evening of the 12th instant Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Johnston gave a very delightful musical entertainment at their pleasant home at Goulding. Many pieces were rendered on the violin by I. E. Allen, assisted by E. A. Allen and others, on the organ by Miss Annie Allen and several others.

The young ladies and gentlemen engaged in several games, and thus the time passed delightfully till 10:30, when dainty refreshments were served and the guests took their departure, thanking the host and hostess.

LITTLE GIRL'S COAT WITH HOOD.

The little girl's coat pictured is a graceful and stylish model for a child and would look well in various colorings and combinations. For general wear, dark blue cloth and the hood lined with brilliant scarlet would be smart, or for a more dressy summer coat, white serge with the hood in pale blue or lined with red is suggested.

GRAND OLD QUINCY MAN

Judge P. W. White Now in His 80th Year—His Career.

The Jacksonville Times-Union says: Judge P. W. White, the "Grand Old Man of Quincy," passed through the city yesterday on one of his frequent trips to the East Coast. The judge is now in his 80th year, and is still one of the youngest men and soundest lawyers in the state—in all the relations of life he still measures up to the Jeffersonian measurement of fit, honest and capable. The life of the judge is an epitome of that of Florida, reflecting its noblest activities and proudest achievements. When three years old his father brought him to Gadsden county when there were only three other white families and the wild cats stood to a man's shoulders all over the pine woods. He was cowboy and ploughman by turns until, at the age of 19, he and two comrades put their baggage on a wagon and rifles on shoulders, tramped to Covington, Ga., to school. There the youthful Floridian studied law under Judge Longstreet. He was admitted to the bar six months before his graduation, learned many things and taught chemistry till he returned to Florida, the best equipped man within her borders. Think of the life covered by one such man. His father, his brothers and himself helped to civilize West Florida—the father as an office holder under Andrew Jackson, frequently had 100 Indians in his yard at one time and the judge remembers seeing 500 from two Indian towns taking a bath in the Apalachicola river at one time. The plantation house before the federal surveyors marked out his boundaries is still in possession of the judge, who is now a valued assistant in the development of the East Coast, where the steam engine has replaced the muscles of man as motive power, and electricity furnishes light to the student instead of the pine knot and tallow candle. What are the experiences of the man who heard his father differ with Andrew Jackson when he listens to Roosevelt orate against the appellate judges who refuse to cringe at his frown.

Miss Bessie Lindenstruth left last night for New York and other points.

Mr. Henry Williamson, of Mobile, a former Pensacola boy, leaves in a few days to visit his uncle in the west. Mr. Williamson has been in ill health of late, and it is hoped that the trip may prove beneficial.

Mr. Ed J. Whitley and daughter, Nina Lee, of Boggy, Fla., are the guests of Mrs. W. M. Purdy, East Gadsden street.

Mrs. L. S. Sowell has returned to her home in Pine Barren after a short visit to her mother, Mrs. L. M. Hokett.

Mr. D. C. Carroll left today for a two weeks' visit in St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Vidal left yesterday for Chicago, where they will visit relatives for several weeks.

Miss Claude M. Kirkpatrick left yesterday at noon to visit her aunt, Mrs. J. G. Centerfitt at South Court street, Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holden, of 16 West Gregory street, left yesterday for a visit to Chicago, and the lakes.

Miss Nina Smith left today for Des Moines, Ia., where she will spend some time visiting friends.

Miss Julia Hahn and Mrs. Merri-man of Cottage Hill, were the guests of Mr. W. H. Smith last week.

Miss Annie Sheppard and her niece, Miss Edna Sheppard, left yesterday for St. Louis and other points.

J. R. NIX & CO. MAKING REPAIRS ON STORE

The store of J. R. Nix & Co. is being remodeled, and for a few days the entrance will be torn up, but not enough to interfere in the conduct of business, and Mr. Nix wants it understood that he is ready to receive his patrons at all times and supply their wants in his line.

The repairs embrace many improvements, notable among which is a new front. The show windows are being rebuilt on the plan of the modern windows of the large cities. The entrance will be greatly beautified, and when finished the entire store will present a much better aspect.

E.W. LAWRENCE'S NEW EQUIPMENT

New Method Laundry Machines Are the Latest Out.

E. W. Lawrence has just installed in his New Method Laundry several of those recently invented machines which have created such a revolution in the art of new laundering and which are now attracting the attention everywhere of people who have clothes to wash.

The great complaint always is that "the laundry wears out the clothes," and that complaint is generally true. The chief wear on a shirt is done while it is being laundered and, in addition to wear, the garment is frequently ironed and stretched out of all shape so that there is little satisfaction in wearing it.

The new machines which Mr. Lawrence has installed prevent all this. They do not rub the clothes to pieces nor stretch them all out of shape in putting on the finish. His new Champion Bosom Ironer, installed at a cost of several hundred dollars, produces just the opposite result.

Additional machines include collar shapers, an automatic seam dampener, a yoke press, a wristband press and a neckband press. These processes accomplish the old-fashioned ironing finish by means of the pressure system—the application of extreme pressure to a flat padded surface against a hot polished surface.

Altogether Mr. Lawrence now has one of the most complete laundries in the south and clothes sent to him will not be worn out or torn to pieces by old fashioned laundry machines.

SOMETHING DOING ALL THIS WEEK

This week's offering at the Bijou theatre promises to be of unusual interest. The Bijou orchestra will render some delightful selections especially prepared for this week. Mr. LaSalle will give some of the best illustrated songs on the market, all of which are entirely new. The life motion pictures are all of new subjects, and the entire programme contains merit. All of the players for this week are new and each is a feature in itself. The list will be given in Tuesday's issue.

Mrs. Nordstrom Goes To Purchase Stock
